Revised September 2020 – added additional module code SWK510 for Outside In participants who are attending only and not completing assessment tasks.

Revised October 2022 - admin correction to GUCCE

Module Aims

This module will be available to Outside In members (who are individuals who use services and their carers) the opportunity to study alongside social work students to explore experiences of conflicts and dilemmas in social work and social care. There will be an emphasis on developing an understanding of the different points of view that can exist between all those involved in social work and social care services.

Students will learn about approaches to conflicts and dilemmas which are informed by philosophies which focus on consequences and those which focus on absolute rules. The ways in which social work values relate to these different approaches will be examined and critiqued.

The module hours have been allocated with a weighting towards classroom / tutorial teaching with fewer hours allocated to independent study than usual as this reflects the learning needs of those who will enrol.
