Module Aims

This module aims to explore the concepts of 'the global child' and globalisation through a range of theoretical perspectives relevant to children's global experiences in the Global North and Global South. You will investigate children's experiences of issues such as schooling, work, being 'out of place' on the streets and areas of conflicts. You will analyse the impact of social, political and cultural differences on concepts of childhood. You will also gain key skills in comparative analysis related to childhoods lived in different geographical areas.

Assessment:

Indicative Assessment Tasks:

Comparative analysis – Students are to conduct a comparative analysis on differing global perspectives of childhood and reflect on its relevance to practice.

Assessment number	Learning Outcomes to be met	Type of assessment	Weighting (%)	Duration (if exam)	Word count (or equivalent if appropriate)
1	1,2,3,4	Report	100		4000

Learning and Teaching Strategies:

Students access the course through a virtual learning environment (Moodle). Each module follows the same structure to enable consistency and involves students in a process of learning new content, discussing content to deepen understanding and reviewing knowledge before moving to the next session. The students are introduced to content through a variety of means designed to enhance access for students with additional learning needs. This could include reading (with audio where possible), watching videos (with transcripts where possible), screencasts, listening to podcasts, and accessing suitable web resources. Students are directed towards and supported to access journal articles and e-books through Resource Finder.

The basis for working with online materials will be through self-directed study, regular online communication with tutors/peers and a work-based portfolio. Students are encouraged to interact with each other and tutors through a range of communication tools. Each tutor would be expected to engage students using chat forums, e-mail, Moodle messaging, wiki pages, interactive quizzes and web conferencing. Students are enabled to communicate with each other and to form a community of practice using a variety of the above tools.

This module may also be delivered using blended learning, whereby aspects of the course may be taught in the classroom (i.e. Saturday Study Day) in combination with online learning.

Syllabus outline:

The syllabus outline has been presented as a set of questions for the lecturer and students to answer together using the most up-to-date materials available. This recognises that knowledge, theory, concepts and practice will change over the life span of this course as the content used to answer the questions below should be revised each year as appropriate.

This module will support students to explore the following questions:

- What is a global perspective of childhoods?
- How can a global perspective of childhood be critically explored?
- How do you conduct a comparative analysis?
- What are implications of a global perspective of childhood on practice?

In exploring these question, this module will consider:

- Raising critical thinking in relation to contemporary academic debates about children, childhood, and children's provision, protection and participation in different global societies, drawing on perspectives and practices from across the world.
- Recognising that there are significant differences in perspectives and practices in relation to children and childhoods across the world, exploring their origins and justification.
- Examining the range of factors and influences of globalisation (political, economic, social, cultural, and technological) on global provision of education and care for children.
- Comparison and contrasts arising from examination of the perspectives, policy and practice between the Global North and the Global South.
- Exploring of how a global perspective of children and childhood can inform personal and professional attitudes and practice.
- Are these differences in approaches between the Global North and the Global South important?
